

Tweets:

Learning about black history does not have to be a triggering experience for children or the adults that teach them.

Teaching young children to embrace the celebratory aspects of black history cultivates a sense of self-love and pride.

The No More Trauma Black History Challenge is a self-paced course created to help parents engage pre-k to 2nd graders in learning our special place in history.

Did you know that you can start fun and engaging convos about black history with your preschoolers?

Representation matters. But more importantly, POSITIVE and CELEBRATORY REPRESENTATION MATTERS.

Introduce black history to littles in an engaging and celebratory way with the No More Trauma Black History Challenge.

Learning about black history does not have to steal our children's joy or ours, for that matter.

Slavery and civil rights are an essential part of history, but there's more to be celebrated.

Experience black history through a new lens with nursery rhymes, songs and stories.

We've been through enough collective trauma. Our children deserve to experience melanated magic.

Hashtag Bank:

I recommend only using one to three hashtags per tweet. Any combination of these can work for the tweets.

#NoMoreTrauma #BlackHistoryChallenge #BlackHistoryMonth #BlackHistoryEveryday
#RepresentationMatters #BlackVoices #Homeschooling #HomeSchoolTools #OnlineLearning